With the World Cup taking place in Brazil, the ECPAT Network would like to remind tourists to respect the rights of children during this festive event. More than 60 million children are living in Brazil and it is estimated that up to 500 000 are involved in prostitution.

Over the last few months, the “Don’t Look Away” campaign, involving 16 countries, has been raising awareness about child sex tourism, aiming to reduce the risk of child sexual exploitation during the World Cup. The increase in the number of tourists in the 12 host cities for the World Cup could result in a proportional increase in the number of child sex offenders.

With the support of the football player Kaká and others, ECPAT reminds potential tourists that they can report a potential case of child sexual abuse by calling 100, the national number in Brazil. In 2013, this hotline received more than 35 000 calls about sexual violence against children. The website www.reportchildsextourism.eu is also available to report cases to national police forces from various European countries.

In order to fight against the sexual exploitation of children in tourism, Brazil has adopted specific legal provisions under which anyone, including foreign nationals, accused of sexually abusing children on Brazilian territory, can be prosecuted and convicted in Brazil. Alleged travelling child sex offenders who escape prosecution in Brazil, can be arrested, prosecuted and convicted in their home country/country of residence for the crimes committed in Brazil, based on the implementation of extraterritorial legislation.

Remember, don’t look away and help us to protect children! Please check out this campaign video featuring Kaká.

Conducted by the ECPAT European network with the support of the European Union, the Social Service for Industry of Brazil (SESI) and the Brazilian government, this awareness campaign brings a multi sectoral approach combining support from public institutions, NGOs, the tourism industry and sport representatives in the fight against sexual exploitation of children in travel and tourism.
Objectives

1. To minimize the number of cases of sexual exploitation of minors acting on a drop in demand - potential sex abusers (casual sex tourists vs. preferential sex tourists).

2. To relay in Europe the efforts made in Brazil to prevent the risk of child sexual exploitation in tourism, especially during the football World Cup.

3. To promote reporting mechanisms and the Brazilian hotline 100.

4. To inform EU citizens of the potential impact of sports events on the phenomenon of child sexual exploitation in the host countries.

5. To mobilize the World Cup organizers on the importance of respecting the rights of the child.

6. To use the event as a way to improve child protection.

7. This campaign is also an opportunity for ECPAT network to talk about the child sexual exploitation more widely.
Dissemination in Europe

Target

The campaign «Don’t Look Away! » primarily intends to prevent sexual abuses by casual sex tourists and addresses messages to two types of audiences:

Extended target: travellers including travellers to destinations at risk, especially to Brazil and the host countries of international sporting events in general.

Specific target: football fans and people travelling specifically to the 2014 FIFA World Cup in Brazil.

Countries involved

Coordinated by ECPAT France, «Don’t Look Away!» campaign has been planned in collaboration with five other ECPAT countries (ECPAT Germany, ECPAT Austria, ECPAT Netherlands, ECPAT Luxembourg and ECPAT Poland) and is also disseminated at different levels by European partners of child protection in Italy, Spain, Belgium, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Ukraine, Romania, Czech Republic, United Kingdom and Estonia. In Brazil, the campaign is disseminated by SESI (Social Service of Industry of Brazil) in the 12 hosts cities of the football World Cup.
Main strategy

- Conception of messages by a technical committee composed by tourism sector representatives.
- Collaboration between partners in Europe and Brazil for the conception of a common message in order to ensure a consistency between the campaigns.
- Delivery of positive messages to avoid stigmatization of supporters.
- Mobilization of people able to reach fans: sports media and renowned football players.
- Mobilization of tourism sector (Ministries of tourism, airlines, hotels, tourism media, tourism fairs, tourism students).
- Long-term action towards FIFA2020: to integrate criteria related to child rights issues in the selection of countries.

Investigation on the magnitude of child sexual exploitation in Brazil

In preparation of this campaign ECPAT Netherlands, Terre des Hommes et Free a Girl hired local researchers to make a quick scan on the nature and the extend of sexual exploitation of children in Brazil, mainly focussed on the cities where the tournement takes place. sujet was published in the “Nosso Jogo” brochure.

The invisibility of the problem encouraged child protection organizations Terre des Hommes, Plan, ECPAT and Free a Girl to issue a research on the scope and magnitude of the problem of sexual exploitation in Brazil. No such research had been conducted before and figures in reports and articles on the issue vary, leading to guestimates, quite often contradictory to each other.

Sexual exploitation of children however seems to exist throughout the country, there is not a town in Brazil that goes without a case of sexual exploitation of children. The information gathered during this research suggests that we still only have the tip of the iceberg in view. Click here to read the report
In Luxembourg, the campaign to raise awareness on the sexual exploitation of children in view of the Brazil World Cup was launched on 6 December 2013, the day when the World Cup groups were drawn. On 5 December, a press release was circulated to all the Luxembourg newspapers to inform them about the launch of the campaign. The campaign was mainly a social media campaign, but some other activities were also undertaken, such as the participation in the Luxembourg tourism fair “Vakanz” in January 2014. Luxair also partnered with ECPAT Luxembourg and contributed to spreading the campaign on board its flights and at Luxembourg airport.

In January 2014, ECPAT Luxembourg had a stand (offered by Luxair) at the tourism fair “Vakanz”. We showed the campaign posters and distributed the leaflets. Persons who stopped and talked with ECPAT also received an “anti-stress” football with the campaign logo.

Video spot and leaflets
From December 2013 to May 2014, Luxair showed the campaign video spot in all its flights equipped with in-flight entertainment systems. The campaign leaflets were distributed to the Luxair staff as well as at the Luxair check-in desks at Luxembourg airport.

Flydoscope magazine
Luxair published the campaign poster in its December 2013 edition of the Flydoscope magazine.

Tourism fair
Luxair made a stand available in its section at the Luxembourg tourism fair “Vakanz” in January 2014.

Radio interviews
Live broadcast radio interview regarding the World Cup campaign on Radio 100.7 on 13 March 2014.
The hotline 100 is a Brazilian system implemented by the Secretary of State for Human Rights that receives reporting calls regarding violations against children. This hotline is the main tool both for Brazilian and European organizations to understand the impact of the «Don’t Look Away!» campaign. At this moment, official statistics say that from June 12th and July 13th 2014, the number of reporting calls increased by 15.6% compared to the same period in 2013. This statistics is not filtered which means that it included all sorts of violations against children (physical, psychological and sexual). The Brazilian government is working to determine how many of these calls concerned sexual exploitation of children during the World Cup.

The most affected cities in Brazil

From the 11,251 phone calls registered to the hotline 100 from June 12th and July 13th 2014, almost 69% concerned the 12 hosting cities of the World Cup, so 7,756 calls. São Paulo seems to be the most affected city with 1,762 calls, followed by Rio de Janeiro (1,291) and Bahia (789). The increase in the number of calls does not mean an increase of violations against children. Through these statistics we can affirm that awareness campaigns like «Don’t Look Away!» help to create a social consciousness on the need to report sexual and all kind of violations against children.
